

Committees Named For Kingston Celebration

Full Official Program Announced and Local Committees Named to Consult With State Officials Who Are in Charge of the Exercises in Kingston on September 10 in Celebration of Beginning of State Government Here 150 Years Ago.

At a meeting held recently in Albany of Dr. A. C. Flick, State Historian and chairman of the state committee, Peter Nelson, executive secretary, and the chairman of the executive committee, a tentative program was arranged for the Sesqui-Centennial celebration here on September 10.

Assemblyman Davis submitted to the conferees the proposition to produce the historical drama contemplated by the State Sesqui-Centennial Committee. The control of the matter rests in the hands of the state committee. The local committee is appointed at the request of Dr. Flick who will seek their advice and cooperation.

It was determined to have the drama and that the Home and Farm Bureau should stage and perform it. The drama involves the meeting of the Fourth Provincial Congress and selections from the debates and the adoption of the Constitution and its promulgation, the inauguration of Governor Clinton, the meeting of the Senate and Assembly in the first session of the Legislature, the convening of the first session of state's great court of original jurisdiction, the Supreme Court, with John Jay presiding, etc.

The program comprehends a salute to the Governor upon his arrival, and the following events:

10 a. m. to 11 a. m.—Pilgrimage to historical buildings and sites, the laying of a wreath upon the tomb of Governor George Clinton, and a short address, in charge of the Committee on Historical Pilgrimages and Markers, Everett Fowler, chairman.

11 a. m. to 12 m.—Dedication of New Historical Museum Building with brief addresses and music, in charge of the Committee on Dedication of Museum and Medals, the Hon. A. T. Clearwater, chairman.

12 m. to 2 p. m.—Reception and luncheon at Governor Clinton Hotel for state officials and committees, in charge of the Committee on the Care of Speakers, Special Guests, and Luncheon, the Hon. Philip Elting, chairman.

Among others, addresses will be made by the Hon. Edgar J. Dempsey, Mayor, and the Hon. A. T. Clearwater, Honorary Chairman of the Executive Committee.

2:30 p. m. to 4 p. m.—Historical addresses by Governor Smith, Senator Wadsworth, Senator Knight and Speaker McGinnies, and music, in charge of the Committee on Exercises, Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, chairman.

4:15 p. m. to 6 p. m.—Historical drama of the institution of the First State Government, in charge of the State Committee, the Hon. A. C. Flick, chairman, and the Committee on Historical Drama, Mrs. James O. Winston, chairman.

8 p. m.—Band concerts.

The speaking program and the historical drama will take place on the Kingston Driving Park Grounds.

To the ceremonies there will be invited prominent public officials of the state and nation in our state and distinguished citizens in educational and other fields.

To carry out the program the executive committee has authorized the appointment of the committees hereafter named.

The committee has made an effort to make these committees as representative as possible and bespeak the cooperation of the people of the county and city to make the celebration a great success.

In the days of the organization of the state government, Kingston and Dutchess county enjoyed the most unusual honor. Here the great forward historical step of the adoption of the constitution for the state took place. Under that constitution here was the first legislature in the new state.

When these acts of sovereignty had taken place and the tripartite powers of the executive, legislative and judicial had been asserted, the state was formed. All other Sesqui-Centennial observances measured by their consequences pale in the presence of what took place here.

The committees named are as follows:

Executive Committee—Honorary chairman, the Hon. A. T. Clearwater; chairman, Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck; Adm. F. J. Higginson, Edward Cockendall, Judge John G. Van Ethen, John D. Schoonmaker, Everett Fowler, Arthur McCausland, the Hon. Philip Elting, Frank Cockendall, Dr. George F. Chandler, the Hon. Walter P. Crane, the Hon. Roscoe Irwin, Mayor Edgar J. Dempsey.

Care of Speakers, Special Guests and Luncheon—The Hon. Philip Elting, chairman; Mayor Edgar J. Dempsey, the Rev. Joseph B. Scully, Philip J. White, Dr. George F. Chandler, the Rev. Dr. Putnam.

Want North Front Sacco Decision To Be Market St. Tonight, Council Meets Thursday

Fifty-three Merchants of Street Petition Common Council to Change Name—Other Matters at Council Session Tuesday.

A petition signed by fifty-three of the merchants of North Front street asking that the name of the street be changed to Market street was filed with the common council Tuesday evening and after some discussion was tabled until a more suitable name than "Market street" could be selected. All of the aldermen were present at the meeting and several other matters came up before the council.

Why They Didn't Sign.

Alderman DeGarmo who filed the North Front street petition with the council stated that when it had been handed him he had glanced over the list of signatures and not finding that of Rose & Gorman, the dry goods house on North Front street, on the petition he had gone to the office to ascertain the firm's sentiments in the matter. Alderman DeGarmo said he was informed that there was no objection to changing the name "North Front street" but the firm did not approve of the suggested name of "Market street."

The Petition.

The petition outlined four reasons for asking for the change in name. First—that in most cities there is a Market street, and that North Front street is truly entitled to be named Market street.

Second—that within the past eight years the merchants of the street have spent thousands upon thousands of dollars to improve and enlarge their buildings and sidewalks not only for their own benefit but the entire city.

Third—that name North Front really applies to a street bordering along a water front or fronting on some particular section which North Front street does not.

Fourth—that the change of name would work no hardship or embarrassment or injustice to any other business section or street of our city nor to the city itself as a whole.

The Petition Discussed.

Alderman Moore and Alderman Haines thought that the matter should be given some consideration. Alderman Haines said that when fifty-three of the merchants of the street petitioned for a change in name he thought the petition should be granted.

Alderman Fox's Opinion.

Alderman Fox moved that the petition be laid over for further hearing and that a more suitable name than Market street be found. The resolution was seconded by Alderman O'Reilly and was carried with several dissenting votes.

Acker's Bus Petition.

The bus committee reported favorably on the application of James Acker, who operates the East Kingston bus line, asking permission to operate over certain streets of the city to the Central Bus Terminal. On motion of Alderman Fox the application was granted.

Forst Wants to Buy.

A communication was read from the Jacob Forst Packing Company stating it had recently purchased one-half of a lot on Dock street in the rear of the plant on Abel street for $200 from the Cockendall estate and offering to purchase the other half, which is owned by the city, for a similar amount. Attached to the communication from the Forst Company was a letter from City Assessor William B. Martin approving the offer.

City Assessor Martin was present at the meeting and in reply to questions by some of the aldermen said that the lot was about thirty feet front and about seventy feet deep, and that the city held title to it for a long time and he did not believe that any one else would desire to purchase it.

The communication was referred to the auditing committee and the corporation counsel to report back at the September meeting.

Will WDBZ be Abandoned?

O. H. Caldwell, of the Federal Radio Council at Washington, D. C., sent in a communication that he understood indirectly that the city of Kingston does not intend to rebuild the radio station and would therefore relinquish its wave length which it utilized prior to the recent fire. The communication closed with the request to advise him if the report was correct.

As Station WDBZ was not built or controlled by the city but recently had been under the supervision of the Chamber of Commerce, the communication was referred to that organization to answer.

Motions and Resolutions.

The following motions and resolutions were introduced and referred to the proper city boards:

Alderman O'Reilly—That the board of public works be authorized to rip up the sidewalk at 327 Broadway, that the board see to it that the Telephone Company relay the sidewalk so that pedestrians could use it without danger of breaking a leg.

Alderman Moore—That catch basins in Grand street between Broadway and the T. & D. tracks be given attention; property owners claim there was water in the catch basins; that immediate action be placed on Reynolds street; that pipe at foot of Highland avenue be replaced.

Startles the Politicians and Sets Them Fluttering and Guessing by Handing Out, Without Preliminary Warning or Supplemental Comment, a Statement in Twelve Words.

Just as quietly, just as unostentatiously, and with just as few words as possible President Calvin Coolidge on Tuesday afternoon in a class room of the Rapid City High School handed newspaper correspondents a twelve word statement which has startled the nation.

The statement read: "I do not choose to run for President in Nineteen Twenty-eight."

The announcement, coming on the fourth anniversary of his elevation to the Presidency, came like the proverbial bolt out of clear sky. Not even his closest friends had anticipated that he would make it. Mr. Coolidge had held his semi-weekly conference with the newspaper men at nine o'clock in the morning. Just as the conference was about to close he invited them to come back again at noon.

Fifteen minutes before noon the President summoned Edward T. Clark, his personal secretary, to his room. The flushed face of the customarily calm secretary as he emerged ten minutes later served to heighten the tenseness outside.

The President, his face white, rose from his long mahogany desk as the thirty or more correspondents filed in at noon and stood in their customary places across the table from him.

"Is everybody here?" the President inquired, looking toward the door of the converted class room. In one hand he gripped a bunch of folded slips of paper. Assured that there was no more to come the door was locked by Secretary Sanders.

President Coolidge stepped to the right end of the table and asked the newspaper men to file past him to receive slips. On the slips was the statement quoted above. The surprised correspondents inquired in a chorus if the President cared to amplify the statement. He shook his head and sank back into his chair with an air of relief. Immediately the newspaper men rushed for telephone and telegraph wires.

ment had aroused and he examined closely all data that came to him from various sources.

Some of the messages which reached Rapid City were relayed immediately to the summer White House 62 miles up in the hills last night, but the bulk of them were left on his desk for his personal study.

Summer Capital Speculates.

While the President withheld further comment, the summer Capital was swept into a frenzy of speculation. Far from the centers of population where news is not readily accessible, members of the President's party contented themselves with discussing their own views of the unprecedented development and with looking forward to what bearing the statement might have on the remainder of the summer here.

Senator Capper's Reaction.

The Kansas senator drove with Mr. Coolidge to the Game Lodge immediately after the statement was issued, and before leaving the Black Hills said at Chester, S. D., that he considered the situation unchanged.

"I have not discussed the President's statement with him," he said, "but I cannot see that the announcement materially changes the situation. It places the responsibility squarely with the Republican party as to its choice of a nominee next year."

Will Not Change Plans.

"There is nothing here to indicate that the statement will cause any change in Mr. Coolidge's plans," said the Black Hills, where he expects to remain until the first week in September. He has plans and two more trips into the Black Hills before returning to Washington and no doubt will take advantage of a few others should the occasion arise.

Mr. Coolidge had scarcely left his office yesterday after making his remarkable and unexpected statement before the wires into Rapid City started humming and soon the commercial lines were augmented by the President's personal wires from Washington with the first mounting communications.

Coolidge Again Silent.

In the midst of all this hubbub, Mr. Coolidge settled back into his accustomed way of saying nothing. He had made his statement, apparently content to let the country remove its own interpretation of the subject in its own way. He seemed to be at ease. He was interested, however, in the comment he pronounced the disappointment he feels.

French Opinion of Coolidge Message

Paris, Aug. 3 (AP).—President Coolidge's statement was received in France with interest. Commenting on the announcement that President Coolidge did not choose to be a candidate for the presidency in the next election, says the President's decision comes at the very hour when the Geneva Naval Conference was working its way through the last stages.

He had undoubtedly arranged in the design of dropping himself in handling diplomatic pressure. He wanted no discomfiture to remove denotation or scruples of put such interpretation upon it as he chose. He was interested, however, in the comment he pronounced the disappointment he feels.

"Most of us pay little attention to what is happening in China," said William O. "With most of us, the rubber situation seems to be a thing of the past, and we are not aware of the fact that it is still a very important factor in the world's economy."

"Now that practically every American family, on an average, owns an automobile, it might be interesting to know how the Chinese war has already spread its influence into the great rubber-producing area of the world—Malaya—in a way that may sometimes affect the American pocketbook seriously."

New York.—If brevity is the soul of wit, how very amusing the new bathing suits must be! A Colorful Crepe Bathing Suit Marked with Figures Representing Every Step Made by Lindbergh in His Flight from San Diego to Paris, Including a Portrait of the Hero Himself. Wing Designs and Creamers Lend Further Atmosphere to the Print. Box Pleats Accent the Back of the Bodice and Skirt. The Cap Matches the Suit, Which is Worn over a White Jersey.

By prejudice you may have against being conspicuous by wearing bright colors, and select the brightest one of all for your bathing suit. That is, if you have considered your pondage and are sure of being a picture and not a cartoon in red or orange.

Most of the smart bathing suits protect the neck—something for which to be thankful. Others are made extremely revealing, so that the sun's rays may play upon the skin. Suits such as these require bath robes and capes for the times when one is not sunning oneself.

There is scarcely a fabric, not even excepting velvet, that is barred from the beach. Many women contend that a velvet bathing suit is the most practicable and comfortable of all. Satins, crepes, gingham, crepones, and linens offset the display of knitted swimming suits which every beach may be counted upon as enjoying these sunny days.

SEA FOODS

Let us break away from the old custom that Friday is always fish day. Fish should be served oftener; one may not be able to have the fresh fish in any locality, but the canned, smoked, pickled and salted are usually in ordinary markets; if not, by mail or express they will be sent to any address.

Planked Spanish Mackerel.—Split down the back a two-pound mackerel, dust with salt and pepper and rub thoroughly with salad oil. Lay on an oiled plank, place in a very hot oven for about twenty-five minutes. Baste frequently with melted butter and a few drops of lemon juice. Remove from the oven and pipe seasoned mashed potato around the fish, brush with the yolk of egg beaten and run the plank under the gas flame to brown. Have meat from a half pound of cooked lobster, dip in butter and lay around the fish. Garnish with slices of lemon and parsley.

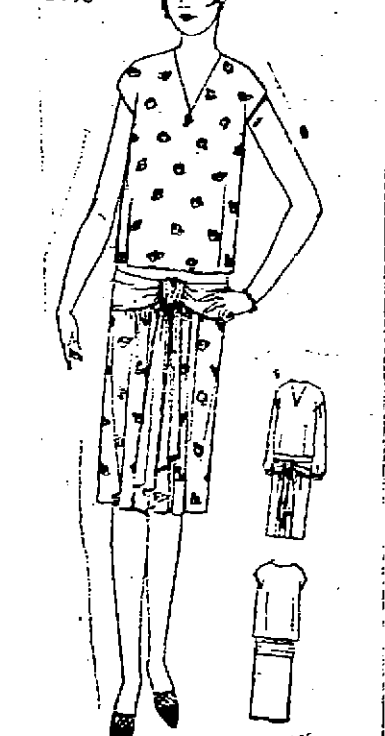

Salmon Shortcake.—Make a rich biscuit dough and bake in a hot oven, split them and spread with butter and pour over the following sauce: Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add two of flour and when well cooked, a pint of hot milk; stir and cook until smooth, add one can of flaked salmon or a slice of boiled salmon flaked, one tablespoonful of capers or one hard-boiled egg chopped fine, and a tablespoonful of chopped parsley.

Fresh Salmon With Piquant Sauce.—Prepare the following salad dressing, using three tablespoonfuls of oil, one of vinegar, a pinch of ground cloves and thyme, salt and pepper, lay in a two-inch slice of fresh salmon and stand two hours, turning often to marinate well. Remove, dry and broil over hot coals or under gas. Serve with the following: To two tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan add one tablespoonful of finely minced shallots, three tablespoonfuls of vinegar, a dash of grated nutmeg; cook, adding one cupful of hot water or fish stock, some chopped gherkins and more seasoning if needed. Roll up and pour over the fish.

A Pretty Dress for Many Occasions.

5775. This youthful design may be finished without the long portions of the sleeve, as shown in the large view. If desired the tie sash may be omitted, and a fancy buckle used in its place on the crash girdle. The pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. To make the dress as illustrated in the large view for a 38 inch size, will require 2 yards of 32 inch material for the waist, girdle and tie sash, and 4 yards for bolero and skirt of contrasting material. If bolero is made with long sleeve portions 4½ yards will be required. The width of the dress at the lower edge is 1½ yard.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Two-Piece Sports Dress for Summer

Jacket Adds Smart Touch to Youthful Frocks Now in Limelight

The regime that introduced a coat for every dress in the ensemble mode for spring and summer has added a jacket to many of the sports frocks that will make the summer an extremely smart one sartorially.

In general, the youthful novelities that assert so wide an appeal are found incorporated into the group of summer clothes labeled sports. As a matter of fact, sports clothes are worn for occasions other than active sports, and particularly in the summer time make their appearance at all times except for strictly formal occasions.

In general, the straight line is strictly adhered to in sports models, but it generally possesses smart details in achieving this straight effect. The sports ensemble is extremely important. Often several colors and fabrics are combined, but they are always worked together to maintain the basic ensemble idea.

Both one and two-piece modes prevail in chic, but almost always they possess a plaited skirt, box plaits being most often used. The blouse is either straight or broken by a bolero movement. Necks are V-shaped, square or round. Geometric lines are the basis of the sports mode with vertical, horizontal, diagonal, curved, diamond-shaped or zigzagged lines shown through rucks, platings, stitchings, braids and cut.

The jacket that plays so important a role in the sports mode may accompany a frock in exact fabric and color and may introduce both new tone and material.

Jean Arthur, motion-picture actress, appearing in the film, "The Poor Nut," has selected a smart sports outfit which introduces the new jacket treatment. It is an open jacket smartly scalloped at the edges and is in a lovely shade of blue, while the frock itself is of white. An artist's bow of dotted silk is worn at the neck, and also forms a colorful handkerchief in the jacket pocket.

Buttons to Ornament

Short Sports Jackets

On some of the short sports jackets a few buttons are used as an ornamental detail or, in those cut in the tuxedo style, one or two as a fastening far down in front. In the matter of trimming other ways are employed by the different designers, French and American, particularly in these lighter versions of sports dress. Nothing is really elaborate, of course, but a touch of something that adds decorative detail is shown in many of the better sports costumes. On some are shown a bit of needlework, embroidery, cross-stitch, or cloth patterns applied. The peasant embroidery and crochet edgings are particularly good, and besides these are braid, ribbon in bands and motifs and leather. On a swaggy sports coat from Martini et Armand snakeskin is added as a narrow border all around the beited jacket and on the pockets, collars and cuffs.

Velvet Evening Coats

Velvet evening coats at the Paris fashion centers are either in black or in the light shades such as pale green, pink and blue, and are worn over matching frocks of chiffon or crepe. Deep blue seems to be coming into favor, and the lining of lame or broche coats is either silk velvet or panne. The lame and broche coats appear in greater number than the velvet.

BARKING AGAIN.

Somebody started an agitation for a campaign to induce all automobile owners to have their cars examined and made safe. The man at the head of the state automobile bureau endorsed this and fixed a date. The governor concurred and issued a proclamation urging motor car owners to lead the united warning and request. All of this propaganda was, of course, the law and was all the time that the proper officials may halt and examine at any time and in any place any motor vehicle and direct that repairs be made if such repairs are required in the interest of safe operation. An "inspected" certificate on the windshield is only a statement that at the time the car was inspected it was all right. It is not a positive assurance that the vehicle is still all right nor does it bar the proper officials from halting and examining the car. But if a large number of drivers could be induced to voluntarily have their cars inspected, it would promote safety and save lives.

Many drivers do not need to have their cars inspected, as they look after them carefully themselves and are as competent to judge their condition as is any garage mechanic. It was never intended that such drivers should be forced to have their cars inspected. In fact there is no force behind the campaign except the force of persuasion and reason. But the farther down an idea like this is passed the more likelihood there is that some feeble-minded nonentity will arrogate to himself authority that neither he nor anyone else possesses and begin to threaten and demand. It has proven so in the campaign now going on.

There was no misunderstanding, no authority had been claimed and no threats made until the Ulster County Automobile Club came along a day or two ago with threats that are entirely unauthorized, intimating that there is grave trouble ahead for anyone who does not have his car inspected at once and carry a tag to that effect on the windshield. While the statement disclaims any "official" information as to penalties it plainly seeks to create the impression that there is a penalty and that an unidentified and mysterious something will happen which "will cost more after August 6 than it will now."

Perhaps a congress of psychologists, psychiatrists and alienists might determine how people and organization officials, especially, get that way. If it could and could isolate the bug that makes them get that way, and find a poison for it, no sum would be too great to reward the effort. The American people resent being driven. They resent, especially, unofficial or official arrogating of authority by those who are unable to restrain their desire to issue orders where no orders are needed or are effective. Inspection of automobiles is an excellent thing but it will not be furthered by organized but unauthorized barking at owners.

GOVERNORS MEET AGAIN.

At first it was called the "House of Governors." In the sense of a sort of third house to represent the people that would discuss important questions, impress Congress and influence legislation. By some it was expected to be a body preservative of State rights and dignity. It seems that Governor Ritchie of Maryland still dreams of "an organization permanently alert and working to protect the true scope and to assert the rightful functions of the States," thus to "check the modern drift to excessive centralization." But one difficulty is that the 45 Executives—or such of them as attend—are divided in opinion as to the extent of the "rightful functions" of the States and the dangers involved in excessive centralization. Another difficulty is that the States, once great and powerful, the voluntary creators of the relatively feeble Federal government, are now widely regarded as mere geographical sections of a nation and of little individual importance except locally, while the Federal power, representing the whole country, is regarded as the only power that counts. The States are regarded as mere geographical sections of a nation and of little individual importance except locally, while the Federal power, representing

MORE AUTOMOBILES.

Will you read automobile production was falling off this year? A road many people in the industry and outside of it, who would like to forget their prophecies now. The fact is that most of the automobiles in the business have had a production, in the first six months of 1937, greater by 15 per cent than that of the same period last year. And 1936, as anyone in the trade can tell you, was a mighty good automobile year.

Everybody who has no car wants one, and about half of the people with one car want two, and many of those possessing two want three or four. People are trading horses for cars, and farmers are trading land for them. There is always a "saturation point" in sight, but like the end of the rainbow, it is never reached, for the nearer we come to the point where everybody owns a few cars, the greater is the wear and tear and the greater the replacement demand. We can be no more "saturated" with cars than we were with wagons before gasoline superseded the horse. When some means of transportation as much better than the automobile as the motor car is better than the horse is found it will be time enough to begin to worry about a "saturation point."

GIVING SUNLIGHT TO THE COWS.

Our farmers, that is our dairy farmers, or even those who just keep a few cows, but send the milk to the city, will likely be wondering "what next?"

At present they must conform to a high standard of cleanliness, the cows must be free from tuberculosis, and the milk contain a certain percentage of butter fat.

And now it is quite possible that within the next five or ten years, they must guarantee that their cows get a number of hours a day of sunlight, or failing this that they are providing artificial sunlight on dark days.

Now this is all really serious. "It is an unfortunate dispensation of Nature that just at the winter season when the human being is deprived of Ultra-violet light of the sun, many of his chief articles of food also decline in their content of Vitamin D, from the same cause."

Animals and plants, growing in a climate where there is little sunshine during certain seasons of the year, are likewise deprived of ultra-violet light at this time, and so their value as food is accordingly decreased.

In milk, and also the foods that are made from it, this is a serious matter from the standpoint of infants and young children, with whom milk is a big standby.

Now while the general use of cod liver oil would help to overcome this deficiency in Vitamin D, no one could hope to have every family using cod liver oil with all their children.

However some research workers have been successful in raising the Vitamin D value of cow's milk by feeding the cows with cod liver oil. Another method is to apply artificial sunlight direct to the cow by means of the ultra violet lamps. This is being done on a small scale in Vienna where the problem is very serious, since the cows which provide the milk for the city, are kept in stall all the year round, and the milk given is consequently always "winter milk in its content of Vitamin D."

And so we can look forward to the day when the farmer will not only have his milk tested for butter fat, but likewise for its Vitamin D content.

And this is only right when we remember how children must depend upon milk for growth, and for the necessary time for bones and teeth.

Build Third Lake In State Park

Completion of New Lake in Harriman State Park will take eleven of the Eighteen Artificial Lakes Planned for That Region.

Planned for the site for another artificial lake, the Harriman State Park, which is being developed by the State of New York, is the largest of the artificial lakes planned for that region. The new lake will be nearly a mile long, and will have a water surface of about 45 acres. It will be impounded by a dam 100 feet long, carrying a roadway, and 35 feet high at its highest part. Very little large timber will be removed for the lake bottom, as the site is mostly occupied by brush and swamp growth.

Work will be pushed on the removal of the brush and the clearing of vegetable growth from the surface to make a clean gravelly bottom, during the summer and fall, and the dam will be raised meanwhile, so that the winter rains will fill the depression, and by next spring the lake will be ready for the Camp Fire Girls to move into new quarters that will be erected for them on the shore.

The dam will serve as the roadway for the relocation of the Long Mountain road, which connects the Seven Lakes Drive, the main motor highway through the Harriman Park, from Queensboro, four miles west of Bear Mountain, to the Central Valley-West Point state highway. It will be concreted, and with the new Popolopon Drive, now being finished, from the west end of Bear Mountain Bridge to Queensboro, will make a new short cut hard paved route across the Park to Central Valley, of only nine miles. The section of the Seven Lakes Drive, between the dam of Queensboro Lake, and the turn off of the Long Mountain Road, will be widened into a four way thoroughfare, to provide for the additional traffic.

WOMAN 91 YEARS OLD IS GRANGE LEADER

Ellicottville, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP).—Mrs. Adeline Chase, at 91, still is a leader in the activities of the Grange at Ellicottville, Cattaraugus county, quite as she was when the Grange was organized 25 years ago.

Furthermore she still is, as she has always been, a "real farmer," devoting much of her time to her garden, her flowers and her chickens. In her spare time she reads, taking pride in keeping up with modern affairs.

Mrs. Chase was the first lecturer to be elected by Ellicottville Grange and during her years of service in the order has become one of the outstanding figures of the Grange. At a recent conference of Grange workers held at Ellicottville, Mrs. Chase delivered an address in response to remarks congratulating her upon her years of activity.

Mrs. Chase lived alone until three years ago when she fell and injured her hip. Her remarkable strength and vitality enabled her to recover and today at 91 friends say she gives every promise of reaching the century mark still hale and hearty.

Only a little while ago Mrs. Chase demonstrated her agility by dancing at a local dance. She is the only woman in the Grange who has been elected lecturer. She is the only woman in the Grange who has been elected lecturer. She is the only woman in the Grange who has been elected lecturer.

WHAT HIGH COMPRESSION MEANS TO YOU

The principle of high compression is readily understood. The tighter you pack the powder charge in a muzzle loading gun, the greater the force given the bullet. Similarly, the tighter gasoline vapor and air are packed or compressed in the combustion chamber (the space between the head of the cylinder and the top of the piston) before ignition, the greater the power derived from the explosion.

Increasing compression therefore simply means decreasing the size of the combustion space, which may be accomplished mechanically or through the formation of carbon.

In terms of you and your car, higher compression means a more powerful and flexible car. In short, a performance impossible with lower compression and the use of ordinary gasoline.

NATIONAL DEFENSE
STRONGLY FAVORED

The American Legion department of education, which prizes itself upon the maintenance of many standards and high standards, recently entered into a campaign to bring the influence of the American Legion to the attention of the public. It has a series of articles by its members who believe the American Legion is the only patriotic organization that will protect the nation from the outside.

Legion leaders have declared that the present is directing his attention principally against the "Red" influence. Training corps, a series of courses in comparative few schools and colleges. The national defense act of 1920, passed by Congress, authorizes the installation of U. S. T. C. courses in land-grant colleges and such other institutions as are approved by the War Department.

Edw. Gen. L. R. Gignillier, superintendent of Culver Military academy, contributed the following information regarding R. O. T. C., with the aim that all citizens, before drawing conclusions, inquire carefully into the subject.

The prescribed course for college students, known as the senior course, requires 60 hours of work each in the summer and the sophomore years. The course is divided as follows:

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

SHY DOODLE BUGS

"Daddy, what's a doodle bug?" asked little Mary, who was sitting on her father's knee.

"Well, it's a little insect that is very shy," said Daddy, "and it likes to hide in the grass. It's called a doodle bug because it always has its home in the ground, and it's so shy that it never comes out of its hole unless it's very dark."

"Is it like the little ants?" asked Mary.

"No, it's much smaller than an ant, and it's much shyer," said Daddy. "It's like a little insect that is very shy and likes to hide in the grass. It's called a doodle bug because it always has its home in the ground, and it's so shy that it never comes out of its hole unless it's very dark."

"The doodle bug" continued Daddy, "is a little insect that is very shy, and it likes to hide in the grass. It's called a doodle bug because it always has its home in the ground, and it's so shy that it never comes out of its hole unless it's very dark."

"Sometimes, however, the little ants give a party and invite the doodle bugs to it."

"Now, the ants are the only playmates the doodle bugs like, but the ants have to beg hard before the doodle bugs will come out of their holes, and they always have to call: "Doodle bug, doodle bug, come out of your hole."

"The doodle bugs were so frightened, though, at the ants' parties that they decided they'd give up ever going out of their holes."

"They thought the ants were very reckless to play out-of-doors, where any moment they might be trodden over, but the ants were brave and didn't think of such things happening, and, besides, they liked the fresh air."

"They were very fond of the doodle bugs and enjoyed playing with them. So again, they tried to get the doodle bugs to play with them, but the doodle bugs would not budge from their holes."

"The doodle bugs' mother called out that all the little doodle bugs were sick from having eaten so much at the last party of the ants, and could not possibly go."

"The ants didn't like it at all that the doodle bugs wouldn't play with them, so they thought up a way to trick them."

"They called: 'Doodle bugs, doodle bugs, come out of your hole! Your house is on fire, your chimneys will fall, and your children will burn!'"

"So out scampered all the doodle bugs as fast as they could, to the huge amusement of the ants, for the trick they had played was such an old, old trick."

An Odd Bees' Nest

During a rain and wind storm at Taranaki, New Zealand, a young girl noticed that an old horse stood at the gate of its paddock shivering as if it needed something.

She went into a shed where a rug had been placed, pulled it off a hook, and was amazed to find herself in a swarm of bees. When they had somewhat calmed down, she opened the rug with a rake and found in it a nest about six inches long. The bees had picked every snow-white hair off the rug and had made a very beautiful covering for the honey-comb, which in shape, was like a small football. She placed the nest carefully in one of the sheds where the bees busily covered it with hay and hayseed, making it harmonize with the color of the ground.

Soup

"What do you get if you don't boil your drinking water?" asked teacher. "Typhoid fever," was the ready reply.

"And when you boil your water?" again queried the teacher. "Soup," chorused the little folks.

How to Protect the Throat When Smoking

What 9651* Doctors say on this subject

The signed statements of intelligent men and women whose voices are to them what the hands of the day laborer are to him—the means indispensable to livelihood or success in life—are convincing. Actors and actresses, great singers, men conspicuous in public life, radio announcers, testify that they like LUCKY STRIKE cigarettes because of their finer flavor and because they do not irritate the throat.

Before such statements by laymen were published, questions had been addressed to a number of physicians in various sections of the United States—many of them leading physicians—and some replies had been received. The following is the result of the questionnaire:

Q1—In your judgment is the heat treatment or toasting process applied to tobaccos previously aged and cured, likely to free the cigarette from irritation to the throat?

9651 doctors answered this question "YES".

Q2—Do you think from your experience with LUCKY STRIKE cigarettes that they are less irritating to sensitive or tender throats than other cigarettes, whatever the reason?

11,105 doctors answered this question "YES".

Yellow Fever Hero

Get's Home as Reward

New York.—A former army doctor, brought from the ravages of yellow fever which he served as a young doctor in 1901 for the United States, who was awarded the right to the right of the United States, and a reward for his services. Through a committee appointed by the American Association of Medical Engineers, John D. McFarland has been awarded a home in Washington, D.C., which will reward him for the services he rendered in the army in Cuba. McFarland served in Cuba from 1901 to 1902, and was one of the first to be infected with yellow fever, which had spread Central and South America.

THIEF STUDIES AS HOTEL CLERK TO PLUNDER GUESTS

Hollander Becomes Favorite as Attendant in Paris White Learning Habits of Patrons.

Paris.—The use of a hotel clerkship as a school for thievery is one of the latest novelties of the underworld of Paris, and it occurred in one of the foremost hotels of this city. The clerk in question was a Hollander, named Hemming, who assumed the name of Carolus Hemmer. For some time he performed the duties of the clerkship with much efficiency and grace and was a favorite with most of the guests of the hotel. His salary was a generous one, and he received rich "tips" from guests who appreciated his untiring attentions.

All the time, however, he was diligently studying the guests, their ways and manners, so as to be able to judge of their means and to determine whether they had many jewels or other valuables in their possession, and whether they kept these in their trunks or in their rooms or entrusted them to the safe deposit vault of the hotel.

When at last he felt himself able to read human nature, he resigned his clerkship and took to stealing from the guests of hotels. In this he was for a time successful, securing much loot and avoiding arrest. One day lately, however, the occupant of the room which he was robbing returned unexpectedly, and the thief crawled under the bed to hide. He was not quite quick enough, however, to escape the eye of the guest, who summoned the police. A wild chase ensued through the corridors and some of the rooms of the hotel, rivaling the fantastic scenes of a motion picture melodrama, which ended with the capture of the thief as he was hiding behind the draperies in the room of an elderly English woman. A sentence to two years in prison was the epilogue to the play.

Drought Cause of Much Misery in South Africa

Cape Town.—The Midland cape is suffering from the ravages of the most acute drought experienced in South Africa for many years. Official figures show that at Aberdeen 500 people are on the border line of starvation, while at Willowmore 400 families are destitute.

Relief organizations have been compelled to close down owing to lack of funds. Stock in the Karroo has been dying off by hundreds and that which remains is wasting away, the Karroo being parched, not a vestige of green to be seen for dozens of miles.

Farms are being deserted, the destitute families either going on trek in search of pasture, or deserting their farms and stock and trying their luck in the diamond diggings, already overcrowded. At Port Elizabeth a relief fund has been organized and although the sum collected has now reached $1,140, this is totally inadequate to cope with the widespread destitution. In some districts bitterly cold weather has been experienced and this has added to the sufferings and has further taken toll of the starving stock.

On the Karroo carcasses of sheep, goats, cattle and donkeys can be seen in profusion. The drought has ruined hundreds of acres of crops and farmers formerly prosperous are now on the verge of ruin, their employees dismissed and their lands dried-up wastes.

Turns Honey to Gold, at Least Fakir Says So

Bombay, India.—A pseudo "holy man" is engaging the attention of the Bombay police. The simple faith of the Indian native enables him to reap a rich harvest.

Posing as a religious mendicant endowed with the gift of magic he claims to have been given power by the goddess of good fortune that enables him to turn honey into gold.

Visiting native houses, he induces the women to make a present of their jewelry to the goddess, and in return presents them with a pot of honey. This pot, he tells them, must be placed under the doorstep and after two days it would be found that the honey would be turned to gold, and on top of the gold the family jewelry, returned by the goddess.

Ruba-El-Khali, the sandy desert of Arabia, remains unexplored; unsurmountable hardships may conceal a wealth of strange species. Pictures, taken on the outskirts, suggest the interior land.

Desert of Arabia, Where Eden May Have Been, Challenges Moderns to Explore It

Contrary to popular conception, large parts of the world are as yet unexplored. Elmer, Clark has told of the South Polar regions and El Gran Chaco of South America; today he describes a third world awaiting a Columbus.

By ELMER CLARK,
International Illustrated News Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK (I-I-N).—Perhaps the oldest land in the world, possibly the location of the Garden of Eden, Ruba-El-Khali today defies man to penetrate it.

Ruba-El-Khali is the vast desert in the southern part of Arabia. As far as can be learned from its borders, it consists of tortuous, sandy wastes, not capable of supporting life or vegetation.

Yet no one knows what will be found in the interior, and some day some explorer may come out of this desert with a story that will astound the world: of strange cities and peculiar people; of unknown vegetation and unsuspected animal life.

Only a few years ago Major Cheesman, a British soldier and explorer, set out to explore Ruba-El-Khali. He managed to traverse only a small part of the country. He crossed the barren stretch known as the Jafurah Desert, just north of Ruba-El-Khali, and found it to consist of vast moving sand dunes. But his trip yielded one remarkable discovery. He found a hot springs main of this fertility in fossils still to be found there. Some myths have it that the Garden of Eden was near this spot; scientists admit that the human race came from the vicinity. Who knows then, but that the desert may yield up traces of the earlier man, or that remains be discovered that rank with the unearthing of dinosaur eggs in China? The Roy Chapman Andrews expedition into Tibet?

The possibilities of finding human beings in this tract of land are not as remote as they seem. For all that is now known, there may be oases capable of supporting hundreds in the desert fastness. The same ring of sand that has kept the adventurers out of the desert would be sufficient to keep inhabitants within.

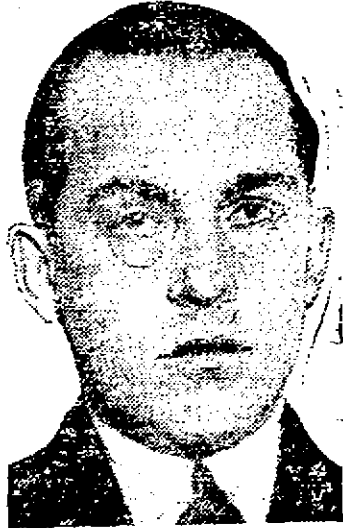

Tomorrow Elmer Clark will conclude his series with an article on the fourth great unexplored world.

Ancient's Good Fortune

Archaeology is always turning up ancient civilizations and pointing out their likeness to the one we are at present enjoying as well as we can. But we have never heard that the excavators have found a clay tablet containing the words and music of a "popular song." Some things the ancients were spared—Youth's Companion.

LAST NIGHT on the RADIO

Early evening daylight reception Tuesday gave hope of really good reception later, but the "sunset fading" that began at 5 o'clock was followed at 5:40 by the buzzer and later reception was nothing wonderful. Still many DX stations were heard, including WTAM, WJR, WLW, WSAI, WLS, WSEA, WHT, WBBM, WCX, WHAS and WSM. The Louisville station is not often heard on its new wave length. Syracuse was again very strong. In addition to the buzz there was a frequent rattling noise heard during the evening. KDKA was heard throughout the evening.

WITH BUT LITTLE TO DO

Hsuan Tung, once Emperor of the Chinese, now lives in retirement within the Japanese concession at Tientsin. He is shown with his wife and, in a closeup, apparently little bothered about affairs between Southern and Northern troops.

International Illustrated News.

Flipping Eye-Glasses Acme of Emperor's Achievements

PEKIN (I-I-N Special).—Perhaps least worried of all about the outcome of the war between Cantonese and Pekinese forces for control of China is Hsuan Tung, who, had things been different, would today be exalted ruler of all China.

"Emperor" Hsuan Tung sits in his European home in the Japanese concession of Tientsin, juggling his spectacles and displaying a casual interest in the news of the northward march of the Southern army.

If the Northern forces turn them back, Hsuan Tung will remain in his peaceful retreat, happy in the love of his two mates and the society of the foreign colony.

If the Northern forces are defeated, there will probably be ample time to leave the concession under Japanese guard and sail for Nippon; or the Japanese army might be sufficient to permit him to remain in the concession.

In either event, his annual spend of $500,000 is likely to continue and even if the radicals from the South gain control, foreign powers will probably see that they continue his income.

WOULD TRAVEL.
Hsuan would prefer to travel, but the royal family will not hear of it, and what is the use of a poor little emperor against the cries of a small number of imperial dowagers and so on?

sonage would not be molested and he would get $4,000,000 a year.

In December, 1922, he married the daughter of Jung Tsun, a Manchurian noble, and learning that Western kings used personal names, he chose "Henry" for himself and "Elizabeth" for his wife. Among the foreigners he is frequently referred to as Henry Pu Yi today.

In the following year, a revolt broke out in Peking, and soldiers broke into Hsuan Tung's palace.

"PAT" CUT.
He was forced to accept a reduction in his annual income and to flee the palace, taking with him the empress and the second consort. He found protection under the Japanese flag, and there he remains, almost a prisoner in his own country.

The twenty-year-old youth is not impressive; he lacks the lustre that surrounded the old Manchian king. He appears to be just an ordinary Chinese youth, carefully treated to European culture; a youngster who's best trick is his ability to change his long range spectacles for his short range glasses with one sweep of the arm and one twist of the wrist.

MR. GEORGE G. BROOKSCoolidge's 12 Words Shock Wall Street

The Money Kings are Jolted and Prices of Stocks, Bonds to a Tremor Again, Since New High Levels.

New York, Aug. 3. (AP)—An avalanche of selling orders, inspired by President Coolidge's unexpected announcement that he would not be a candidate in 1932, sent the stock market to a record low at the opening today when prices crashed three to nearly 10 points. But a sharp recovery followed and many of the early losses were wiped out. Trading was on an enormous scale, with indications that the day's sales would run close to 2,000,000 shares.

Wall Street undoubtedly was astounded by the President's decision. It caught the market in a vulnerable position, with railroad and industrial shares averages at a new peak after 20 consecutive days of steady gains, and with broken loans around the highest level on record. There were various opinions as to its ultimate market effect, but a rather unanimous agreement that it had injected a new note into the market months earlier than had been expected.

The opening outburst of selling orders appeared to come largely from professional traders who have been sponsoring the recent advance, and who desired to conserve at least part of their paper profits. "Bear" selling also played a big part in the opening decline and short-covering in the rally which followed. The market made up all of its initial loss of 16 1/2 points and climbed to a new peak of 229. Timken Roller Bearing converted a loss of more than five points to a gain of almost equal proportions by attaining a new peak at 142. Losses of two to six points in recent favorites, as U. S. Steel, Common, General Motors, Baldwin, General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, Atchafon, Baltimore and Ohio, and Union Pacific were largely made up.

Among the many issues to touch new high prices were American Metals, Montgomery Ward, Postum Cereal, United Fruit, Erie S. P., Norfolk, Nash Motors, Brooklyn Union Gas, Loosle Wiles Biscuit and American Linseed.

Local Death Record

A first anniversary Mass for Stephen S. O'Connor will be offered at St. Joseph's Church Saturday morning at 7 o'clock.

Mrs. B. W. Ellis, mother of Mrs. L. H. Willson of No. 25 Johnston avenue, died Tuesday night in Atlanta, Georgia, following an operation for appendicitis performed a week ago. Funeral Thursday at 11 o'clock a. m., from Mrs. Ellis's home in Cuthbert, Georgia.

The funeral of Gertrude E. Jones, daughter of Gertrude Smith and the late William Jones, was held from the family home at Stony Hollow this morning at 9:30 o'clock, thence to St. John's Church, Bristol Hill, where at 10 o'clock a solemn Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of her soul by the Rev. Peter Spellman. Many and beautiful were the floral tributes from a host of sorrowing relatives and friends, together with a number of spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards which were placed near the casket. During the Mass, "That Beautiful Land on High," and "Thy Will Be Done" were rendered very feelingly by Mrs. Lawrence Joyce, and at the conclusion of the Mass and as the body was being borne from the church she sang "Take Her My Jesus, to Heaven." The casket bearers were Vincent Batt, Thomas Styles, Nicholas Radenberg, Edward Wilson, Henry Smedes and John Batt. The Rev. F. X. FitzPatrick of St. Mary's Church, met the funeral cortege and pronounced the final absolution as the body was laid to rest in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Trace All Alphabets to Symbolic Pictures

While printing, of course, was unknown to the intelligence of the world, still even before printing there were records and communications. At first, these merely consisted of pictures. Then the pictures were arranged in series so that there was narration. Next through use, these pictures became symbols, that is, they were given a phonetic value. For example, the circle which the Egyptians used to represent the sun, in time became a symbol.

It was the Assyrians, however, who were first to take these various symbols and give them arbitrary values phonetically. They were still pictures, but they conveyed sounds.

Thus was formed the basis of all alphabets, Roman, Hebrew, Greek, Russian, Turkish, Armenian and Arabic. Different these may seem, but all can be traced back to the common origin.

Take the letter "A" of today. In the Phoenician-Assyrian alphabet that letter represented an ox and was designated by a conventional ox's head. The Greeks took it and turned it upside down, redid it and made it more graceful. In Hebrew, the word Beth is very common. Originally, it was an upright rectangle with a cross stroke in the center. In other words, a drawing of a house, which is what it means in Hebrew. Now the old rectangle with the corners rounded is also being due to Greek influence, the Greeks favoring the curved line of beauty rather than the rigid rectangle.

"Mashers" Worsted by Girls' Clever Scheme

Pittsburgh's young women have various ways of dealing with "mashers," "asphalt arabs," or whatever the species may be called. They are not lacking in the art of refusing unsolicited ice cream sodas or buggy rides. But this little tale is handed on for what it may be worth in an emergency.

The two girls had been visiting in a rather lonely neighborhood and were walking to their homes. The street was deserted except for two men behind them. After a time of doubt and apprehensive shivers, the young women realized that they were being followed.

They hastened their steps, but to no avail. Gradually the pursuers gained, and at last were almost within speaking distance. The young women were at a loss as to what to do. Suddenly one raised her hands toward the other and began making strange gestures. The other one did the same.

At this unusual procedure the men stopped in their tracks and stared. Then they turned and retraced their steps. Neither, apparently, knew the language of the deaf.

After the young women, who continued in giggling triumph to their homes.—Pittsburgh Post.

Fighting the Mississippi

The levees on the Mississippi river have been in existence from the eighteenth century. Formerly under the slave system each planter along the river had dikes erected for himself. The towns then took action, finally the counties, and the states building levees. Then congress in 1879 appointed the Mississippi river commission, but made no provision for the actual building of levees or protection of the lands from overflow. In 1889 congress made the first appropriation for the improvement of the Mississippi river. From 1879, under the commission, the federal government has expended more than $200,000,000 in the improvement of the Mississippi river and the protection of lands from overflow.

Got Through, All Right

Recently there visited in this city a genuine old Georgia "cracker" from the outlying piney woods section of that state. While here he attended for the first time in his life an Episcopal church service. Later he remarked to a friend:

Great Military Leader

Hannibal of Carthage was one of the great soldiers of ancient times. In 218 B. C. when twenty-nine years of age he led an army of 100,000 across the Mediterranean sea to Spain, and then marched his force over the Alps into Italy. Only 20,000 men remained with him, and yet for 15 years he maintained a war against Rome. He was finally compelled to return to Carthage; was defeated in the battle of Zama, 202 B. C., and finally committed suicide in Syria.

Forfeit Pershitz $750 Security

County Treasurer Will Pay $750 to Support of Abandoned Child—Walter Edwards to be Released.

As a result of a hearing held in county court last night, the $750 security which was forfeited by Walter Edwards, who was charged with the abduction of a child, has been paid by the county treasurer. The child, who was found in the possession of Edwards, is now in the custody of the county treasurer. Edwards was released on his own recognizance.

The Morris Pershitz matter, which has been in court on several occasions, was disposed of when Judge Fowler granted an order for the $750 cash security which had been deposited to guarantee the return of the abandoned infant. This sum will be paid toward the support of the child at the specified rate of $10 per week. Edwards was released on his own recognizance.

Pershitz, who pleaded guilty to the abandonment charge after indictment, has made two payments amounting to $56 since April when the order was signed. One payment was made on April 14 amounting to $28 and a second on June 3 of a like amount. Since that time no payment has been made in compliance with the court order. The $750 cash which was put up on arraignment was cancelled and on April 14 was deposited as security for payments provided by the court order. In addition to the amounts paid under court order Pershitz also paid $100 April prior to the making of the court order and pending trial. Chris Flanagan and Henry Klein have appeared for Pershitz but at present both have withdrawn from the case and Pershitz has interested an officer of an alimony papers' society in New York in his case. Communication from this official have been numerous.

Herman Levine, manager of the Jewish Agricultural Society at Ellenville, who was to administer the $750 a week to Mrs. Pershitz, was sworn this morning in court and testified that he had received by two payments which have been turned over to Mrs. Pershitz in accordance with the court order.

There was no appearance on the part of Pershitz this morning although notice of the motion to forfeit the security was sent him.

Court adjourned until 10 o'clock August 17.
